

Telling the time

At the beginning of the closure of schools I sent information to support you in all your subjects.

For maths there were two weeks on telling the time, with lots of links and suggestions on how to help you learn. This included making a paper plate clock.

I am very pleased to see that Charlotte has gone to great efforts in her clock-making using her love of Harry Potter. I can see she has put the numbers on for the hours and also put the five minute intervals to assist her in 5minute increments on past and to the hour.
